ANNEXATION OF UTAH.

The question of annexing Utah to Nevada has been discussed at intervals in this state for years. To accomplish it two things are absolutely necessary. One of these is to get the consent of congress, and other to get the consent of the people of Nevada. Though the population of Utah greatly exceeds that of Nevada the people of that territory need not be consulted at all in the matter, as the inhabitants of a territory have few rights which congress is bound to respect and it can divide or cede a territory at will.

Nevada was originally a part of Utah Territory, which extended west to the California boundary. When the Comstock mines were discovered the people of Western Utah assembled in convention at Genoa, framed a constitution and declared their independence of Utah. The constitution was adopted at an election held in September, 1859, and Isaac Roop of Susanville was chosen governor. Then the summit of the Sierra Nevada was recognized as the boundary line between California and Utah, and Honey Lake valley was supposed to be in the territory which succeeded from Utah. In 1861 the territory of Nevada was organized by congress out of that part of Utah west of the 115th meridian and north of the 37th parallel. In 1866 another slice of Utah was annexed to Nevada by act of congress, and there are people, though not very many, who seem to think that the whole territory is about to be annexed to Nevada, but that is a question on which congress and Nevada will have to agree there need be no apprehension of its immediate settlement.

Last winter rumors were afloat that the congressional delegation from Nevada had made arrangements at Washington for the immediate annexation of Utah to Nevada. These rumors were emphatically denied in a letter from Senator Stewart, which was published at the time. He stated that no action would be taken by the Nevada delegation that was not satisfactory to and in accordance with the express wishes of the people of the state, and as nothing has since been done to ascertain what the people desire in the matter the inference is plain that no attempt is being made at Washington to unite Utah and Nevada.

There are very many reasons why Nevada should object to a union with Utah and only one that can be urged in its favor, and that is the reduction of taxation. With more people and more property the expense of a state government would be lessened, but Nevada would be merely an outlying dependency of Utah. The capital and, doubtless other state institutions, would be moved, as soon as the constitution could be amended, to Ogden or Salt Lake City, and the name is all that would be left of Nevada.

By modifying our state government, dispensing with every office that is not absolutely necessary and reducing the salaries of those retained, Nevada can maintain its independence as a state. A few years hence at furthest the tide will set in its favor. A congress will doubtless be elected next year that will not be controlled by Wall street, the wrong of 1873 will be righted and the resumption of mining will give an impetus to all other industries in the state and increase its population and taxable property ten fold.

FOREIGN DEMAND FOR SILVER.

Last July the treasury department published a statement which showed that the exports of silver for the year ending at that date exceeded $40,000,000 and the imports of the metal for the same period were $22,000,000, an excess of exports over imports of $18,000,000. Now another statement is published which shows that the United States has exported $8,000,000 more of silver in the last eight months than during the same period in 1892.

The foreign demand for silver is steadily increasing. There are countries which must have the metal to coin and to use in the arts, and these countries do not produce it. The United States is the greatest silver producing country in the world, yet with the demand broad for the metal steadily increasing, its law makers are doing all in their power to depreciate its value. It seems incredible that anybody having the welfare of the country at heart could approve a scheme to depreciate the value of an article which other countries must have and of which the United States is the greatest producer, yet 115 Democrats out of 215, and 112 Republicans out of 122 in the house of representatives voted for such a measure.

The United States produces more wheat for export than any other country on the globe, and foreign nations must have that wheat. What would be thought of an American congress that would deliberately undertake by hostile legislation to reduce the price of wheat and cripple the farming industry and all other industries dependent upon it? Would not the farmers have reasonable grounds for believing that their representatives were in league with those who wanted wheat? Have not the miners and, as the price of silver is regulated by the price of wheat, the farmers, too, good reasons for suspecting that the congressmen who are today endeavoring to destroy the value of silver are influenced by other motives than the good of the country and the welfare of the masses?

The Russian government has ordered the suspension of silver coinage at the mint on private account.

FAULKNER'S AMENDMENT.

It Will Provide for the Coinage of Three Million Dollars Monthly.

WASHINGTON, September 13.—Faulkner will introduce in the senate his amendment to the Sherman repeal bill to-morrow. It will provide for the monthly coinage of three million silver dollars till the aggregate circulation of silver reaches eight hundred millions and will call for the retirement of all bills under $2 denomination. Faulkner said he had not yet canvassed the senate upon his amendment, and was not prepared to say whether it would command a sufficient vote to secure acceptance. He had, however, received many assurances of good will toward the principles suggested by the amendment from members who express a willingness to support a bill satisfactory in details.

It is believed that the great bulk of the silver advocates, Republicans and Democrats alike, will support this measure when they find it impossible to get anything more favorable to the white metal.

Many repeal advocates, representing the conservative element on that side, would probably recast their votes for an amendment giving silver the limited recognition proposed. It is definitely known, also, that the influence of the administration will be exerted in opposition to this and other compromises, and whether the amendment will be able to secure a majority vote, despite opposition, can only be ascertained by a canvass of the senate. It is not expected that the amendment, when introduced, will be taken up immediately.

THE BRAZILIAN REBELS.

Their Warships Bombarding Rio Janeiro

New York, September 13.—Advices from London and Paris confirm the report that the rebel fleet is bombarding Rio Janeiro. Admiral De Mollus notified representatives of foreign powers at Rio that the vessels of the insurgent squadron would open fire on the city's defenses at 9 o'clock this (Wednesday) morning. The forts in the bay would be first attacked separately. It is believed that upon the result of this bombardment the future movements of the rebels will be decided. In consequence of this announcement arrangements have been made to send foreign war ships and merchant vessels at Rio to positions outside the line of fire. A British gunboat was to leave the bay early this morning to warn all incoming vessels to stay off the coast until the result of the bombardment is learned. Much anxiety is felt in Rio as to the fate of the city in the event of the success of the rebels, for in spite of dispatches sent by the government, there are doubts as to the loyalty of the forts in the bay. It is asserted that the garrison will at least exchange a few shots, haul down their colors and join the rebels. The government, however, seems confident of the garrison's loyalty and that of the troops in the city, even if the forts surrender.

Iowa Republicans.

SIGOURNEY, Ia., September 12.—The Republican campaign opened here this afternoon with a mass meeting, largely attended, at which Frank D. Jackson, the Republican candidate for governor, was the leading speaker. He devoted most of his time to the financial situation, declaring it the legitimate result of the financial policy of the Democratic party, particularly in the matter of the tariff.

Disregarding the Law.

PORTLAND, September 13.—The steps taken to-day in Portland to enforce the Geary act, as interpreted by Judge Ross of California, did not meet with success. A committee of the Portland Central Council endeavored to have warrants issued, but the United States commissioners declined to grant them, saying that it would be foolish to attempt any proceedings without funds to carry them through.

Siskiyou Stage Robbed.

AGER, September 13.—The south-bound stage from Klamath Falls to Ager was robbed this morning a mile this side of the scene of Sunday night's robbery and by the same highwayman. The mail was taken. He opened Wells, Fargo & Co.'s box and robbed two Chinese passengers of $90.

A Leprous Chinaman.

OAKLAND, September 13.—It was discovered to-day that Ah Hot, the Chinaman now in the receiving hospital with an injured ankle, is afflicted with leprosy. He has been in the institution for three weeks.

The Emperor of Austria has sanctioned a decree of the Ministry suspending trial by jury one year in Parag, Bohemia, and the districts of Weinburg, Kerolenthal and Smicon, owing to the agitation in favor of home rule for Bohemia. The clauses suspended include the freedom of the press and the right of holding public meetings.

The senate finance committee yesterday discussed but took no definite action upon the resolutions of Peffer and Stewart relating to national bank reserves and treasury deficit. The committee indicated an intention of a favorable report upon the resolutions later.

Of the 9,000 pilgrims who went to Mecca in May, 500 perished of the cholera and other diseases. A body of Turkish troops was detailed to bury the dead. Five hundred of them also died.

The administration is said to have experienced a change of opinion in the Geary act and is not in favor of the Everett bill extending the time for registration one year.

The convicts who refused to work in the Lone Rock mine at Tracey City, Tennessee, came out of the mine yesterday. Their supply of food became exhausted and they concluded to surrender. All is quiet.

Stewart's resolution for a committee to ascertain whether senators were interested in national banks came up yesterday and Stewart addressed the senate in advocacy of it. After a few moments he diverged into a general discussion of the silver question.

Fredrick L. Ames, vice-president of the Old Colony railroad and a director of the Union Pacific, was found dead in his state-room on the steamer Pilgrim on its arrival at New York from Boston. He was reputed to be worth $25,000,000. Apoplexy was the cause of his death.

The Independent says he is a very pleasant gentleman, and while it would much rather have seen the agency filled by a resident of the county or state, it extends the hand of fellowship to Mr. Hargrove and wishes him success at the Duck Valley reservation.

NEVADA AND CALIFORNIA BOUNDARY.

What Professor Davidson Says on the Subject—Old Surveys Ineffective—Disappearance of Monuments and old Reference Marks Destroyed.

The Bulletin says Professor George Davidson of the United States Geological Survey arrived in San Francisco from Lake Tahoe Saturday. He states that the work of establishing the boundary between California and Nevada is progressing satisfactorily. There have been five surveys of this line made. Each surveying party left monuments to mark the line. The only monuments found were those left by the Von Schmidt survey and the survey made by C. E. Grunsky and Mr. Minto. There are no traces whatever of the surveys of 1855, 1861 and 1863. The Von Schmidt monuments are in a fair state of preservation, although a wooden monument was found in one place where, according to the notes, an iron monument had been placed.

"Our work so far has been to establish certain fixed points from which we can proceed with our triangulations," explained the professor. "Having fixed a point near Lake Tahoe, the survey must establish the line which is the shortest distance between that point and the station on the Colorado river which is also on the boundary. This line (49 1/2 miles long) is the geodesic line and will mark the border of the two states.

"The work of the old surveys was inefficient because the engineers had insufficient means of measurement. They were all competent men, but they lacked instrumental adjuncts. This was because higher class instruments and methods were so expensive that the state would not supply them. Another reason why the line is not exact is that it was laid out as an actual line. As a diagonal line approaches the equator it changes at every direction. This makes nice calculations of differences necessary. In going over precipitous mountains errors in laying out a line are almost unavoidable. We will not run a line, but by triangulations will establish monuments at different points along the boundary. These will not be a foot in error.

"Where the country is difficult of access the monuments will be far apart. It would be a wasteful expenditure of money to put them near. In districts where there is accessible property the monuments marking the line will be placed closer together, in order that there shall be no doubt as to which state owns the property.

"Mr. Fairfield has been doing the triangulations. Mr. St. Clair and I have been doing astronomical work. This is now finished. Mr. St. Clair will now devote himself to the smaller triangulations and to taking the topography of that part of the lake in which the triangulation work is being carried on.

"It is difficult to follow the field notes of the old surveys. Since they were made the mountains have been denuded of timber and the whole face of the country changed. In this way many old reference marks have been destroyed. There are many causes to account for the disappearance of the monuments."

NOT HER HUSBAND.

Albert Jaqua Refutes His Former Wife's Story of Desertion.

About ten days ago Mrs. Albert Jaqua arrived here from Virginia City, Nevada, and announced that she was searching for her husband, who deserted her and a young babe about two months ago.

She was without means and the story she told of her cruel desertion enlisted the sympathy of a number of citizens. Her statements were published in the Examiner, a copy of which reached the husband, who is a postal clerk on the Carson & Colorado railroad.

He arrived in the city yesterday for the purpose of denying the story of Mrs. Jaqua. He says that she deserted him on May 10, 1892, and on August 10, 1892, he paid her $200 to settle all her demands for alimony, that on October 21, 1892, she secured a divorce from him at Virginia City. He produced a copy of the receipt mentioned and says he also has a copy of the decree of divorce.

He says his former wife has not seen him since August 10, 1892, but she has known where he could be found. She has no claim upon him, he asserts, and is circulating charges about him to injure him with the postal department. —S. F. Examiner.

A FIGHT WITH KNIVES.

Two Bad Men in Bodie Attempt to Revive Old Traditions With a Hand-to-Hand Combat.

The Bodie Miner gives the following account of a fight which took place in Bodie last week: Those two bosom friends, J. W. Heilshorn and Bill Monahan, had a falling out the other day, and matters culminated in a mutual attempt at life taking Saturday night. Both were under the influence of liquor at the time, and this may account for the fact that neither received serious injuries. It seems that Monahan got Heilshorn on the sidewalk near McAlpin's saloon and took him to task for some alleged wrong that he had done him. He whipped out a butcher-knife and started in to thoroughly "do up" his antagonist. Finding himself in a critical position Heilshorn drew a knife and proceeded to defend himself, jabbing away until Monahan was finally lying helpless on the ground. Monahan received seven cuts and bled profusely, but not one reached a vital organ, though two were in close proximity to the heart. Heilshorn was more fortunate and escaped with only one or two slight wounds.

THE FINANCIAL PANIC.

What Senator Teller Says Caused It. In his speech in the senate against the repeal of the bullion purchasing clause of the Sherman act Senator Teller asserted that if it had not been for preconcerted efforts in the money centers to prevent it September would have seen better times in the finances of the country than the people were experiencing to-day. He recently asked a gentleman of national reputation when the panic would be over, and the gentleman had replied: "When the men who have called it on call it off it will come off." Teller said he hoped at some other time to give the senate his conception of the cause of the recent distressed condition. In his opinion it was due to legislative misconduct.

The speaker next directed himself to stock operations. A New York paper had published daily for some time the depreciation in the value of stocks as a destruction in values occasioned by the Sherman law, that the paper had finally got the amount up to $700,000,000. In his opinion a great many stocks were selling on the market to-day for more than they were worth. He cited Northern Pacific, which, he said, had fallen from 70 to 17. It was said all the great owners connected with it had unloaded when it was 70. That company had $250,000,000 of indebtedness, $75,000,000 held in Germany, and a great amount held in Holland and England.

"Don't you think," asked the Colorado senator, "that when a great corporation like that collapses and is left with a debt so great its most enthusiastic friends cannot hope that it can ever pay, finances might be disturbed in this country as well as in Europe?"

Teller then spoke of the Erie and said he did not suppose anybody pretended that the Erie would ever pay out. He also spoke of the Reading and again asked if any intelligent man believed that either of these great concerns he had named was solvent. This disturbance did not come from the Sherman law. It came from the misconduct of officials. The good stocks of the country maintain themselves, with rare exceptions, almost at par, and many of them above par even during crises. It behooves congress when it comes to legislate on this subject to find the cause of this evil and if within its power to remove it. He did not claim that congress could touch the condition of dealing in stocks. That was one of the evils that had to be allowed to exist.

STRUCK BY LIGHTING.

A Woman Seriously Burned and Her Child Hurled Out of Her Arms.

The Belmont Courier of last Saturday had the following: Levi Hancock and family, who are on their way to Northern California, met with a sad accident on the East Belmont summit on Sunday morning last, about 11 o'clock. At the summit Mr. Hancock left his wife and children and walked to town for the purpose of obtaining information regarding the road. A thunderstorm was raging at the time and a bolt instantly killed two horses which were harnessed to the wagon in which were Mrs. Hancock and three of her children. The lightning struck Mrs. Hancock in the neck and set her dress on fire, which was soon extinguished by two of her sons. Upon examination it was found that she was severely burned about the shoulders and neck. She is now in a fair way to recovery, although suffering great pain. The youngest child, who was on her lap at the time of the accident, was hurled a distance of ten feet from the wagon, but, fortunately, escaped without receiving injury. The other members of the family received light shocks and escaped unhurt. The chair in which Mrs. Hancock sat in the wagon was broken to pieces by the shock, but the wagon was not damaged.

An eminent medical authority, in a recent number of the Boston Surgical and Medical Journal, maintains that coffee is a real brain food, and has the power of absolutely increasing a man's capacity for brain work. The writer further says: "Opium stimulates the imagination; alcohol lifts a man up for the moment to throw him into confusion and irregularity of action, but caffeine increases his power of reasoning, and absolutely adds to his brain work capacity for the time."
